GOVERNMENT PLANS NEXT MOVE IN ITS LONG RATE FIGHT

Determined to Press British Columbia's Case to Final Conclusion

McGeer, Expressing Personal Opinion, Urges General Rate Inquiry

British Columbia's next move in the freight rate fight is now under consideration by the Provincial Government and will be announced shortly, it was made known at the Parliament Buildings to-day. While the Government has not decided yet what its next action should take, it is determined to fight the rate case to a conclusion.

Reinstatement of the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement rates has served to increase rate discrimination against British Columbia to such an extent that the claim of the Province for a general rate reduction, it is believed, will be apparent to the Railway Board, now, if it has not been before. A general inquiry into the whole transportation rate question in Canada is the only solution of the tangle into which the rate controversy has landed now, according to G. G. McGeer, K.C., British Columbia Government rate counsel. In urging such an inquiry, however, Mr. McGeer is uttering his own views and not necessarily the views of the Government, it was made known officially at the Parliament Buildings to-day.

The Government will decide its rate policy itself and then instruct Mr. McGeer accordingly, it was explained. Individual applications for specific adjustments fail to get at the root of the issue, Mr. McGeer believes, and the only way this can be done is by a sweeping survey of the whole situation from Atlantic to Pacific.

Local requirements run up against local conditions elsewhere which might be adversely affected if the application were granted. Changes in the situation have been made from time to time not only by the Railway Commission but by Parliament.

In order to bring about a condition fairer to everybody concerned, Mr. McGeer contends that the 1914 proceeding of a general inquiry should be repeated.

On that occasion the Dominion Government directed the Railway Commission to travel through the country hearing the contentions of all interested parties without reference to particular applications and make a report granting measures of relief which would overcome handicaps of a grievous nature found to exist without doing injury to other parties.

The Dominion Government itself appointed counsel to lead the inquiry and the various provinces were represented along with commercial and industrial interests affected, as well as the railway companies.

Victoria, Australia, Assembly Meets
Melbourne, Australia, July 9.—The Legislative Assembly of Victoria was formally opened yesterday, with Sir Alexander Peacock leading the Nationalist Ministry, although the Labor Party is the largest in the assembly. The Labor Government and the Country Party broke down, because the latter want six portfolios, including the Premier's.

The Assembly immediately decided by a vote of thirty-three to twenty-six to adjourn until July 15, all the one-time Labor provinces were voting against a hostile amendment introduced by J. Pendergast, the Labor leader. Negotiations for Labor representation in the Government are proceeding.

ALL OFFICIALS OF C.N.R. TO AID PLAN
Day's Pay a Month to be Donated by All Above Chief Clerks

Thornton's Share Would Amount to More Than $1,600 in Year

Montreal, July 9.—If the board of management of the Canadian National Railway accepts the offer of the officers of the railway to have their salaries reduced one day's pay a month during the period of curtailed receipts, it is pointed out that President Sir Henry Thornton will contribute more than $1,600 in a year from his $30,000 salary.

If accepted, it is thought here that the officers' voluntary cut will last only as long as the reduction in hours for the men in the shops of the system continues.

The reduction is to apply, if accepted, to every officer above the rank of chief clerk.

THEOLOGICAL CONFERENCE HEARS FROM WIDOW OF NOTED FORMER PRESIDENT

A message of thanks for condolences in the passing of the late president, Bishop F. W. Keator, of Olympia has been received by the Pacific Coast Theological Conference now sitting here from Mrs. Keator, of Tacoma. Bishop Keator was a devoted friend of the conference, at whose sessions last year he presided, and one of the last acts of his life was to forward to the depository of the organization a copy of the paper he read at the last Tacoma meeting.

The conference has had two disappointments, one that owing to critical illness in his family, Rev. Dr. F. W. Padelford, of Seattle, the literary critic and writer, cannot come to the meeting to give a paper on Solomon's Song considered from the literary standpoint, while Principal Smith, of Westminster Hall, the president, has been unable to officiate. The chair at the morning session was occupied by Rev. D. Sanford, of New Westminster, one of the presidents. In the place of Dr. Padelford, his place on the agenda will be taken by Rev. J. R. Robertson, Rev. C. Dr. MacKay, of Winnipeg, and formerly of Vancouver.

Two papers were given this morning, one on archaeology of Western Asia in its relation to the Bible, by Rev. A. Tremayne, and the other by Rev. H. R. McGill, on "The Cross and Fellowship."

This afternoon the delegates were the guests of Bishop and Mrs. Schofield in the reception held at Bishop's Close.

A letter of thanks for condolences from Mrs. Harding, widow of the late President Harding, was read at the dinner last evening. From the time to time not only by the Railway Commission but by Parliament.

LAST EVENING'S PROGRAMME
The ground floor of the First Congregational Church was filled last evening for the meeting of the Theological Conference, at which addresses were given by Professor H. L. McNeill, Ph.D., Dean of the Arts Department of the Brandon Baptist College and Professor of New Testament and Classics there, on the subject of "Christianity and the Mystery Religions," and by Dr. O. E. Tiffany, on "The Atonement."

Professor MacNeill's paper was a scholarly examination of the ancient religions and their influence on Christianity, which had been successfully over-run by neighboring nations.

FULL DISARMAMENT INSPECTION PLANNED
Allies Send Note to Germany Dealing With Military Control

No Promise Commission Will Cease Activities September 30

Paris, July 9.—Germany's request that Inter-allied military control of her armaments cease on September 30 was denied by the Allied Council of Ambassadors in a note handed to the German Ambassador last evening, it was announced to-day. Satisfaction was expressed, however, that the Germans had agreed to the main point demanded by the Council, namely, the resumption of the Control Commission's activities.

The Ambassadors' note informed Germany that the conditions of control would depend entirely upon the satisfactory results of the commission's work and on German compliance with the five requirements made of her previously regarding disarmament.

The method of disarmament inspection would be determined by the Inter-allied Control Commission, the note stated, and any suggestion to the contrary would not be considered.

Dawes Scheme Basis; Allied Conference to be Held July 16

Paris, July 9.—A joint note to the Allies suggesting how the different questions connected with application of the Dawes plan might be settled was drawn up at the conference between Premier MacDonald and Premier Herriot to-day, the British Premier announced.

Mr. MacDonald said the document he had drawn up with M. Herriot constituted the joint note which explained how the Dawes plan problems might be settled at the Inter-allied London conference, which remained fixed for July 16. He declared there was no thought of postponing the conference.

A GOOD BEGINNING
The British Prime Minister, receiving representatives of the press after his conference with the French Premier, said:

"We have succeeded in making a successful beginning toward full accord between France and Great Britain."

ON DATE CHOSEN
Declaring there was no intention of postponing the London conference, he added:

"What an effect it would produce if we postponed it even for a short time! We have invited the Americans to be present and they might think it queer if we were unable to go on with the conference at the date which was fixed for it."

Aeroplane Also Aid Brazilian Troops Against Rebel Groups in City

Several Hundred Killed and Heavy Property Loss During Sharp Struggle

Buenos Ayres, July 9.—Latest advices from Rio Janeiro indicate that the capture by Brazilian Government forces of the rebel positions in Sao Paulo were premature. The positions now are being bombarded by artillery, with aeroplanes co-operating, it is stated, and the official word is that "all is ready for the final assault."

The uprising has cost several hundred lives and much property damage.

After the loyal troops within the city had been defeated the arrival of Government reinforcements forced the rebels to take up defensive positions in the Luz Barracks and the adjoining railway station, which are under bombardment.

Although the rebels dominated the city for three days they were unable to capture Carlos Darwin, Governor of Sao Paulo State, who with loyal troops withstood a siege within the Government palace until relief arrived.

FORMER AMBASSADOR WILL OPPOSE COOLIDGE IN TEST AT POLLS NEXT NOVEMBER

JOHN W. DAVIS

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 9.—John W. Davis of West Virginia, former United States Ambassador to Great Britain, was given the presidential nomination by the Democratic National Convention here to-day after the 103rd ballot.

The opposition of William Jennings Bryan and William G. McAdoo failed to stop the boom for Davis, which began in earnest on the first ballot to-day.

Davis reached a majority of the convention of the 103rd ballot and when this became known and before the clerk had finished the rollcall the convention hall was in a turmoil. The Davis band wagon was moving with full momentum and everybody was scrambling to get on. Changes in votes piled in faster than the clerks could record them.

Bryan's opposition to Davis was swept away in the rain of Davis votes which swept over the convention. The attempt of the McAdoo forces to make E. T. Meredith of Iowa the heir to the McAdoo strength also lost ground, and when the Davis flood was rising so fast that all other candidates were being swept before it, Iowa, Meredith's home state, withdrew him from the contest and voted for Davis.

The scope of disorder swept the convention as everybody clamored for a chance to join the winning forces. When the uproar was at its height, Thomas Taggart of Indiana mounted a chair and moved the nomination of Mr. Davis by acclamation.

MUCH SHOUTING
The motion was carried with a roar and Chairman Walsh shouted into the din before him: "The chair declares Hon. John W. Davis the nominee of this convention."

Immediately the tired, worn and weary convention, which had been struggling in the throes of a seemingly interminable deadlock for two weeks, with the threat of going into the third week, broke loose in the demonstration of joy and jubilation.

PROCESSION OF JOY
Immediately all the state standards which had previously been parading for other candidates, some of them in the midst of hard-fought battles of partisan disputes, were carried to the aisles of the convention hall, while a swirling, perspiring but happy crowd of delegates followed in a procession of joy and jubilation. The band swung into "Dixie," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Maryland" and other familiar airs which had been dinning into the convention for the last two weeks.

101ST BALLOT
On the first of to-day's balloting, the 101st to be taken at the convention, Davis gained 113, Underwood gained 137, Meredith 44, Smith lost 230.5 and McAdoo lost 138.

On the 102nd ballot Texas, with her forty votes, flopped to J. W. Davis.

On the 102nd ballot the leaders stood: John W. Davis, 415-2-3; Underwood, 307; Meredith, 66-1-3; Walsh of Montana 122. This was a gain of 99-2-3 for Davis; a gain of 117-5 for Underwood; a gain of 25 for Walsh and a loss of 63-2-3 for Meredith. On this ballot McAdoo had 11 votes still sticking to him and Smith had 44.

103RD BALLOT
The Davis boom gripped the convention in real earnest on the 103rd ballot. In rapid succession, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois and Kentucky cast their votes for the first time for the former Ambassador to Great Britain.

Massachusetts passed, indicating that the delegation was considering changing its vote. Then Michigan gave 29-4 to Davis. Nevada gave Davis her six and New York split the delegation vote, giving Davis four.

When Pennsylvania had been counted, the Davis total was close to 400. Enough votes were scattered against him, however, to prevent a nomination on this ballot, unless votes of some delegates were changed.

EXTEND ACTIVITIES TO WESTERN CANADA

The progressive development of Western Canada in wheat production and the intense competition in the flour milling industry in England are given as the two contributing factors in causing the Spillers Mining and Associated Industries Limited of England, to decide on a policy of extending their activities to Western Canada in a report received by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce. The scheme for development involves several enterprises and includes the Vancouver Terminal Grain Company Limited with its 2,000,000 bushel elevator which is to be ready for this year's crop. Aspects of trade with the Orient as well as Great Britain are dealt with in emphasizing the increasing importance of the western ports of Canada as distributing points.

SCIENCE MARCHES LE RELIGION LAGS BEHIND

Rev. G. Dickie Points to Need For a Purified Ecclesiastical Movement

"Not only is a revived spirit essential for the church, but a purified church is the great need of our present day civilization," said Rev. Gordon Dickie, minister of Kitilano Presbyterian Church, Vancouver, at the Pacific Coast Theological Conference, now in session here. He was speaking on the "New Era in Social Reform," and remarked: "Already there are many signs on the horizon showing conclusively that we are afflicted with the cancer of life and the decadence of riches in this modern day. In some cases the dawn is already breaking."

WHERE SCIENCE SHINES "Every concept passing through our minds is a thing partly of knowledge, partly of faith, and the two parts cannot be divorced," Mr. Dickie pointed out.

"While religion has been marking time during the past half century, science has gone steadily forward, winning victories all along the line. How has this been accomplished? Simply through adjustment to the unseen realities of life. The scientist has accepted the fact as the shadow of the unseen, and with this suggestion he has gone out to solve many of the secrets of the universe."

"If science and faith would run true to form they must also be true to human nature," Mr. Dickie stated. He paused to examine the Greek Catholic Church, its status before the revolution, and its present position in Russia, torn by schism, and particularly by the secessions of the "Living Church" and the "Church of the Resurrection."

He asked what lesson did that institution have for the western churches—the necessity of return to first principles. Some of the epigrams of his admirable paper were: "Our trouble is a wrong outlook." "Every great revival has inaugurated a great period of social reform." "There must always be a spiritual way to social progress."

"The ideal is higher than the structure of an institution." "In our own day the long conflict between mysticism and science has ended in the complete victory of the latter."

"It is the spirit which dictates the programme."

"A reform of religion when it has fully come will mean a reform of the world order likewise."

FUMIGATION BATHS ARE NOW ABOLISHED

Danger of Transmitting Foot And Mouth Disease by Auto Has Passed

Washington Only State Insisting Regulations be Continued

The danger of transmitting the foot and mouth disease by automobiles traveling from the South has now passed and the states of Oregon, Idaho, Arizona and Nevada have agreed to abolish fumigation stations. President Fred Crone reports in a statement to the directors of the Puget Sound and British Columbia Associated, Washington, however, insists that fumigation be continued. As a result of the cancellation of the regulations in the states mentioned an increase of thirty-five per cent in the travel from California is anticipated. In his report Mr. Crone states:

"I am able to report that the inquiries are coming in in satisfactory shape and that they are being properly and fairly handled in the office of the secretary."

"I find that the most serious problem confronting us is the insistence of the State of Washington that fumigation be continued, and this is especially bad since, at the meeting held at Reno Monday, representatives of Oregon, Arizona and Nevada agreed to abolish fumigation stations on the ground that the danger of transmitting this disease by automobile has passed. All up and down the Pacific Highway, in camps and in hotels, exaggerated statements of what has to be done at the Vancouver (Wash.) bridge are being circulated, and a conservative estimate is that at least thirty-five per cent of the motorists, both those stopping at hotels and those intending to camp, are scared out of coming into the state. However, a check shows that the number of passengers coming here from California is ahead of last year, in spite of this most unfavorable advertising from the fumigation stations."

"The boat and train travel from California is substantially ahead of a year ago. Checks made by automobile clubs, tourist agencies, the railroads and the steamships would indicate that, if this fumigation requirement is abolished, the travel from California to this section this year will be at least thirty-five per cent more than last year."

"O. Hollingsworth, who represented the association at Los Angeles for two months, did very good work while there and his employment was well justified by the benefit he secured for this association."

"I would like to impress upon all cities in the association the need for sending out literature the day you receive the list, as the people making inquiry now are planning to come north immediately, and there should be no delay in sending out this descriptive matter."

"I find that the secretary has been very successful in getting free readers in the California papers, in an effort to counteract the impressions current about the requirements of the fumigation stations at the Vancouver bridge."

Will be Represented Before Educational Survey Commission Next Week

A proposal will be sponsored by Trustee P. R. Brown to the City School Board this evening to have the trustees directly represented at the inquiry to be held by the commissioners conducting the educational survey of the Province.

As announced yesterday the public hearings, which had been postponed, perhaps no board in the Province has given more attention to educational reform than the Victoria board, owing to the fact that its special committee has been investigating the subject for months, and has presented an important report on the subject matter of several points raised in the reference to the commission. While the board has already decided to submit to the commission its findings on a number of matters, personal representation will be urged, especially in view of the fact that the trustees were represented on the original deputation which waited on Ministers to urge an educational survey.

CHILDREN PLAYED WITH MATCHES; LOSS IN FIRE IS $35,000

Rockland, Ont., July 8.—Fire which for a time threatened the destruction of the active lumbering town of Rockland late yesterday, was checked last evening after burning down two complete blocks in the business district, with an estimated loss of from $35,000 to $50,000.

Children playing with matches are held responsible for the outbreak.

TO ASK COUNCIL TO RATIFY BASIS

Special Meeting is Expected on Friday Afternoon

In order to approve a basis of settlement of the points outstanding with Oak Bay, affecting taxes, and property transfers, as discussed at the conference on Tuesday, a special meeting of the council will be held on Friday afternoon. The details were reported yesterday. A troublesome issue is expected at the public works committee which will precede the council, where milk vendors, whose milk is reported to be unsatisfactory, will be summoned to show cause why they should not be proceeded against under the Milk By-law.

REPARATIONS PLAN BRIEFLY OUTLINED

PATIENCE NEEDED

"We are facing an exceedingly intricate series of misunderstandings which have grown up during the past few days," Mr. MacDonald continues. "It will take time, patience and generosity of feeling between the two countries to settle them. Given these conditions our countries will again become the most friendly on earth."

"We are not enemies trying to appear as friends. We are friends trying to clear away differences. We have succeeded in making a substantial beginning, but we must take up one thing at a time. The solution to one question will open the way to two more solutions. We are not magicians and we are obliged to deal with public opinion and with our Parliaments."

DECIDING VOTE

Paris, July 9.—The arrangement drawn up by Premier Herriot and Premier MacDonald of Great Britain in the form of a joint note to the Allies intended to pave the way for a settlement of the reparations question gives the United States member of the reparations commission a full vote and, thereby, the decisive power on the question of Germany's possible default.

BACK TO BERLIN

Washington, July 9.—Indication of an agreement upon a programme for the Allied "Premiers" conference, it was learned at the State Department to-day, led to the decision that Ambassador Houghton should return at once to his post in Berlin. He is expected to sail from New York tomorrow. Whether or not Germany is officially represented at the London meeting, officials explained that the discussion would involve the entire subject of war reparations. Under these circumstances, it was decided that the United States should have a representative in Berlin with an intimate knowledge of the situation.

CORRESPONDENCE REPORTED

London, July (Associated Press).—A white book was said to be at night by the Government giving the correspondence between the British and the Allied Governments relative to the proposed conference in London on July 15.

The white book begins with Premier MacDonald's instruction, June 23, to the British Ambassador at Rome to inform the Italian Government that the sole object of the conference would be to agree upon terms of an instrument formally binding the Allies and Germany to carry out the Dawes report. Mr. MacDonald added that the British Government favored the plan of fixing a date by which Germany must complete legislation and other measures she would have to take, and a subsequent date, perhaps two weeks later, at which all economic and fiscal sanctions now in force in German territory would be withdrawn.

LEAGUE GROUP

"The duty of deciding whether a default occurs in the carrying out of the Dawes report," Mr. MacDonald is quoted as saying "can not properly be entrusted to the Reparations Commission, and it has been suggested that the services of the financial committee of the League of Nations should be invoked."

"The British and French Governments are most anxious to avoid creating the impression that matters have been in the slightest degree settled without previous consultation of the Allies," it is stated, "and no engagements of any kind have been entered into or even suggested. As soon as the inter-allied conference has arrived at a definite agreement, the suggestion is that Germany be invited to meet the Allies in a conference for negotiation and discussion and not in order to be confronted with a document which she might be required to accept or reject."

U.S. INVITED

The British Prime Minister added that the United States Government was being invited to send a representative to the conference.

DOUBTS EXPRESSED

Washington, July 9.—While withholding official comment pending complete analysis of the situation, some Government officials here to-day were inclined to leave my firmest supporters free to take such action as in their judgment may best serve the interests of the party.

CONTINUES TO FIGHT

"I have made this a fight for the principles and ideals of progressive democracy and righteousness and for the defeat of the reactionary and wet elements in the party, which threaten to dominate it. For these principles and ideal I will continue to fight. I hope this convention will never yield to reaction and privilege and that the Democratic Party will always hold aloft the torch which was carried to such noble heights by Woodrow Wilson."

"Cordially yours,"

"W. G. McADOO."

The 103 ballots of this convention constitute a new record. The previous high record of fifty-nine ballots at a national convention in the United States was set at the Democratic gathering in 1900, when Douglass was nominated.

SAFEGUARD FOR LOANS BY BANKS

Ottawa, July 9.—The Banking Committee of the House of Commons yesterday adopted a motion to impose a further safeguard on loans to bank directors, or to companies in which directors are partner or shareholders. The amendment was proposed by E. J. Garland, Progressive, Bow River, Alberta, and was carried by twenty-three to ten. Under the existing law such loans must be approved by two-thirds of the directors present at the meeting. Mr. Garland's proposal requires a unanimous vote of the directors present, and further provides that notice of the proposed loan must have been given to all directors.

London, July 9.—The secretary to the Prince of Wales yesterday denied the Prince had received or accepted an invitation to attend the polo matches between the United States and Great Britain in the United States in September.

Romantic Business Man in Film "Cytherea"

That romance is no respecter of persons is demonstrated by "Cytherea," Goddess of Love, a First National picture which is now being shown at the Capitol Theatre, where it began a six days engagement on Monday. Based on Joseph Hergesheimer's novel; it was produced and directed by George Fitzmaurice for Samuel Goldwyn.

The hero of romance in this case was Lee Randon (played by Lewis Stone), a married business man, whom none of his friends suspected as the possessor of a spirit that stirred to the call of Spring and love.

Irresponsibility of Prehistoric Comedy

"Prehistoric Vaudeville" at the Playhouse this week still continues to draw big and enthusiastic crowds each night. There is a fascination about the irresponsibility of the whole thing that cannot but fail to appeal, and then the dialogue and music is so full of fun and jollity that the audiences soon enter into the spirit of the thing and so help to entertain themselves. Eric Patena is a riot all through, but especially in his big number, "We're All Scotch," in which he introduces a solo on prehistoric bagpipe. Will Marshall does some clever song and dance work, adding greatly to the fun with his political machine.

DISALLOWANCE OF ACT WAS DISCUSSED

Alberta Mineral Tax Outside Powers of Legislature; M.P.'s Express Views

Ottawa, July 9.—An amendment to a motion to go into supply, ensuring the Federal Government for its disallowance of the Alberta Mineral Tax Act, was defeated in the House last night on division. The vote was 27 for the amendment and 104 against.

The amendment, adoption of which would have constituted a vote of non-confidence, was introduced by G. G. Coote, Progressive, Macleod, Alberta, and seconded by J. T. Shaw, Independent, West Calgary.

The Alberta group in the House took the stand that the Alberta Act was within the powers of the Provincial Legislature and that even if the Federal Government found it necessary to disallow it, the Provincial Government should have been notified accordingly before the adjournment of the session of the Legislature to permit amendment of the act. The province had been left without an anticipated source of revenue.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe defended the action of the Government.

NAVAL POLICY

THE Montreal Gazette complains that Canada is indifferent about naval defence and says the country has no naval policy and no navy worthy of the name.

Some of our readers, and particularly those who are comparatively new comers to Canada, may not be familiar with this country's naval record.

It is a simple narrative. In 1910 Canada and Australia agreed with the British Admiralty that they would establish navies on lines which Vice-Admiral Field now suggests would meet the case in times of emergency.

The programme for this Dominion was to include cruisers, destroyers, submarines and two training ships. Some of these were to be built in Canada and eventually manned by Canadians.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier introduced the measure in the House of Commons and both Liberals and Conservatives speeded its way to the statute books. The Canadian Naval Act became the law of the land and a number of British shipbuilders were asked to submit tenders for the establishment of yards and the construction of the ships on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts.

It is important to recall, however, that the Nationalists of Quebec strongly opposed to what they called Laurier's imperialism, were hostile to the idea of a Canadian navy, and fought the proposal with great bitterness.

Mr. Borden was seized with the significance and possibilities of this condition and he wasted no time in putting a purely political plan into operation. He commenced to woo the Nationalists and quickly wedded them with a no-navy ring. He led a successful revolt against the policy which he and his Conservative following had helped to place on the statute books. The price of Nationalist support in the election which followed—in 1911—was three Nationalist anti-navy Ministers in the Cabinet, which he duly paid.

So that when Mr. Borden assumed office one of his first actions was to return the bids to British firms who had tendered for the construction of Canadian naval ships, which the House of Commons had authorized, and dismantle the two training ships which had been in service.

The new Premier, however, shamed at his act of repudiation, introduced a policy which provided for a cash contribution to Great Britain for naval defence. This suited the Nationalists of Quebec. It was the cheapest way out. It involved no construction of ships in Canada, no Canadian interest, no training of young men, no permanent policy; and, as one Nationalist Conservative speaker put it, "it is only a gift of money and that will be the end of it." The Liberals under Sir Wilfrid opposed it because they wanted the original policy which was agreed to by both parties.

Meanwhile Australia had gone ahead with the policy agreed to with Canada and the Admiralty in 1910, with the result that one of her cruisers assisted in the protection of Canada's commerce during the great war. During the controversy at Ottawa in 1912 Canadian Tories scornfully referred to light cruisers like the Australian ships the Sydney and Brisbane as "tin-pots." One of the "tin-pots" sank the Emden and others helped to convoy Canadian troops to Europe.

Conservative Premiers held office continually from 1911 until 1921. They had an abundant opportunity to develop a Canadian navy. With a war in progress they had every excuse for it. But neither The Montreal Gazette nor any other newspapers of its political stripe so much as whispered any advice to them on the subject.

Of one thing we may be sure and that is that if in spite of our enormous indebtedness and the necessity of reducing taxation, Canada shall decide to proceed with the development of a navy of light cruisers, the Conservative party will attack it tooth-and-nail, as it did in 1911, in the hope of gaining the support of the anti-navy element in Quebec in the next election.

THE EBB AND FLOW

QUITE a number of politicians in this Province have traded upon what they believe to be a great exodus of our population to the United States in an effort to make political capital against the Government.

If a good deal of their claims could have been justified, of course, the Province of British Columbia, and other provinces of Canada for that matter, would be almost empty. As it is no such condition exists and Mr. R. J. Stead, director of publicity of the Dominion Department of Immigration and Colonization, in an interview with The Times yesterday, has explained some of the things which, while not difficult to understand by those who desire to understand them, have given some of the pessimists a basis for their erroneous arguments.

Mr. Stead points out that the figures published in Washington in respect of the interchange of population, overwhelmingly to our detriment, are by no means in accordance with the facts. For instance, American statistics show that only 17,325 Americans have come into Canada during the last four years, and he says that "no explanation of the discrepancy seems possible." While prior to April of this year the Department at Ottawa did not keep a record of labor flowing from across the border to Canada, reports for April and May show that no less than 9,000 Canadians who had been in the United States for more than six months passed back into this country.

Canadian born are not subject to the United States quota law and it follows that where two countries adjoin as do these two there must be a continuous ebb and flow of labor. For some time economic conditions in the neighboring republic had a strong appeal. Now the tide is turning in our favor.

QUITE RIGHT

CANADA'S representatives at the meetings of the Empire Chamber of Commerce in London were on sound ground when they refused to give support to a resolution regretting the rejection of Imperial preference by the British House of Commons.

Canada always has been and always will be anxious to do anything calculated to develop trade within the Empire. At the same time no intelligent Canadian would go to London and offer criticism of decisions reached by the people and Parliament of Great Britain regarding questions affecting their own interests. Mutual recognition of well defined obligations is also accepted by the public man from Britain who comes to this country in an official or unofficial way.

The Empire Chamber of Commerce can serve the British family best by the consideration of all genuine enterprises which may lead to the development of the Empire's vacant spaces and so create an economic structure that will support free trade within the Empire.

THOSE CANTEN FUND

AFTER many endeavors to discover an equitable method of distributing $2,000,000 of Canadian Expeditionary Force canteen profits Hon. H. S. Bland has apparently selected what ought to turn out to be an effective plan.

Indications are at present that the money will be divided between the various provinces and that the provincial governments will be asked to appoint trustees to administer it. This system would obviously eliminate that element of discrimination which would very probably have entered into many of the schemes which were submitted a couple of years ago. It would have been manifestly unfair to have turned the fund over to any one ex-service men's organization for the simple reason that there are many who served with the C.E.F. who do not belong to any of these bodies, but whose interest in the final disposition of the fund is equal to that of those who do.

We have always contended, and we see no reason to change our view, that the care of the heavy disability veteran should be made the first charge on this fund. Neither member nor non-member of service organizations would object to such a course. And what better medium could be utilized than the Red Cross Society through its workshops?

San Francisco seems to have let itself go in its desire to give the British Special Service Squadron a royal time at the Golden Gate. These are the demonstrations which advance the cause of British-American friendship, and, incidentally, that of world peace.

New York understood that the Prince of Wales would attend the polo matches between Great Britain and the United States; but the Prince's secretary says he knows nothing about it. It is to be hoped that H.R.H. may be induced to call on our neighbor, no matter how informally, when he comes West.

A large number of delegates to the National Democratic nominating convention in New York must be breathing considerably easier now that somebody has been nominated. The experience of the last three weeks ought to sound the death knell of the two-thirds ballot system.

IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS

From The St. Catherine's Standard
It was not so long, back since every man who blossomed out in a checkered suit in Spring was considered a gambler.

AND ADD TO HOME WORK

From The Hamilton Herald
To learn and thoroughly digest the parking and traffic regulations it seems necessary to begin that branch of education early in life. How would it do to have these subjects added to the public school curriculum?

KNOWLEDGE OF DOMINION DAY

From The Calgary Albertan
Some person on the Dominion Day committee made the assertion that not one child in ten could tell what Dominion Day was. That statement must be very much of a misrepresentation and should very speedily be refuted. Our schools are competent.

AN UNKNOWN HERO

From The Hamilton Herald
To the unknown hero, salute! A man saved lives when he risked his own to stop a runaway team in Hamilton. He grasped the bridle and halted a horse that would have trampled him down had there been the slightest misstep. Then he vanished and begged for no publicity. His is a modesty in greatness, and true greatness in modesty. More honor to him, whoever he may be.

OLD SONG

From The first issue of Music
This is a song men made
Of long toil and little shade;
This is a song men made
Of hard stars and a black night.
A song men came to know
With starting over plough or hoe
At roads where none had need to go.
A shilling speech they poured
From sighs long stored
From laughter saved till it was golden.
This is a song of slower odds
Vanished life. Our song is bright
With rippling play of haste and light.
Smoothly their singing runs, their laughter
And neither less an echo after
No ecstasy of purple bloom.
No peace, no hate of hopeless wrongs.
Out of our life we make our songs.

PASCAL said that most of the evils of life come from "man's being unable to sit still in a room."

Certain it is that we have all often fared badly by acting without sufficient thought beforehand.

The trouble is with our inherited traits. In the simple early times of the human race the man who worked the hardest, the man who killed the most deer, the man who caught the most fish, was the man who succeeded.

All the inducements of early society were to immediate action, and all the penalties fell on the man who paused.

Times have changed, however. Civilization has become complex. It is no more so important to get up and go somewhere as to sit still long enough to know where you are going.

Back of all the bustling folks who "do things" are the quiet folks who think up things for them to do.

Sailors could not find their way in the maritime provinces were it not for the dreamy astronomer gazing at the stars and the mathematician poring over his logarithms.

All the bustling activity you see in the factory, the department store, even in the battle, depends for its efficiency upon some brooding mind that plans in the stillness of thought.

Nothing is idler than the person who is always busy, just as no one says less than the person who talks all the time.

Every actual deed is a sort of running jump, where how far you jump depends on how far you run.

Dorchester, a Great Governor-in-Chief

IT was on July 9, 1796 that Lord Dorchester, Governor-in-Chief of Canada and of the Maritime Provinces, left the scene of his labors for the Empire of nearly half his life-time. As H.M.S. Active bore him and Lady Dorchester and their children past the point of the Island of Orleans, and as the storied Rock of Quebec faded from his view, the splendid old soldier and administrator knew that his work was done. Well and truly had he laid the foundations of the British colony which has grown into the Dominion of Canada. He was seventy-two years of age and weary of official life, the negligence, the ignorance and carelessness of cabinet ministers, the ingratitude and misunderstanding of successive governments at home, the petty and acrimonious strife of the irascible elements in his own new possession. As Colonel Guy Carleton, Quartermaster-General, Chief Engineer, Commander of a regiment, and friend of General Wolfe he had helped win that possession thirty-seven years before, and could show the scar of a wound in the head which he had received that fatal September morning on the Plains of Abraham. As Sir Guy Carleton he had ruled the difficult and precarious colony for twelve years from 1765 until 1778, had befriended the hapless French-Canadians, had protected them as far as he was able from the rapacity and arrogance of the camp-following, plunder-seeking crowd of immigrants from the British Isles and the American Colonies, which had descended upon the colony, and he had bravely defended the colony against the invasion of American rebels in 1775 and 1776 and had driven them forth in a disastrous rout. His reward had been neglect and insult at the hands of that bungler of war and peace, Lord George Germain, Secretary of State for the Colonies and mainly responsible for the loss of the War of the American Revolution, and he had resigned and been allowed to retire to private life in England—England's finest officer of that period, and the one man who might have managed successfully the war in America.

AS Lord Dorchester he had returned to Canada in 1786 after his forlorn service of winding up the American War, bringing off the army, and extricating from their cruel situation the thousands upon thousands of loyalists, for whom he developed the highest admiration. The difficulties which he faced in the administration at this dangerous period would have daunted many another, and were so keenly realized by the Government of the moment at home that they dared trust no one else in this post. There was constant intrigue on the part of the State of Vermont, not yet one of the United States, for its own ends, led by the Richelieu River and the St. Lawrence, intrigue which involved annexation of Vermont to Canada. There was constant ferment in the great wilderness of the West, still the territory of the retreating Indian tribes, and dotted with little forts still held by British garrisons because the United States had failed egregiously in carrying out its treaty obligations. There was the ever recurring danger of war with the United States, and as the French Revolution progressed, with France as well. Internally there was renewed and increased agitation by the Anglo-Saxon immigrants for representative institutions, there was the extraordinary tangle of the British and French claims to the Northwest, and finally there was the settlement of the loyalists to accomplish with the alleviation of their distress and the satisfying of their desire for freehold tenure of land in place of prevailing seigniorial tenure. Altogether a vexatious, an anxious, a nerve-racking period of adjustment.

Louis de Buade, Comte de Frontenac, stands out as the greatest personality, the most picturesque and dominating of the line of French Governors of Canada. Sir Guy Carleton, Baron Dorchester, like Frontenac, towers above the line of British Governors, a man whose service to this our country and to the British Empire was beyond computation and reward, and the results of which have endured.

The elements opposed his departure and wrecked his ship on Anticosti, fortunately with no loss of life. Fishing vessels carried the family to Percé in Gaspé, and thence a ship from Halifax bore them on to England. Twelve years of richly deserved ease remained before the freedom of White's consumption of his work died at the age of eighty-four in 1808. Lady Dorchester, the elegant, charming, memorable vice-reine of the Chateau-St. Louis at Quebec lived on a quarter of a century, and, linking the time of Pitt with that of Palmerston, carried the stately fashions of the period of Louis XVI. into the Victorian age.

ORIGINALS FOR SALE

From The Chicago Tribune
"Robinson Crusoe's gun" has brought $1,250 at a London auction. Since collectors fall for that sort of thing, how about auctioning off (1) original looking-glass used by Alice in Wonderland; (2) genuine chesses manufactured by the Swiss Family Robinson; (3) hypodermic set used by Sherlock Holmes; and (4) wooden leg, the identical wooden leg worn by Long John Silver in "Treasure Island"?

CONSERVATIVE LEADERSHIP

To the Editor—I was very pleased to read the editorial in your paper of recent date, with reference to the retirement of the present Conservative leader, Mr. Bower, from public life.

As you so ably stated, his retirement, should it take place, will be a great loss to the Province, as there is no man in public life to-day who knows and understands the Province better than Mr. Bower does.

It has been a distinct shock to the large body of Conservatives that action should have been taken by a few of the Conservative members-elect to secure a new leader before the finished returns of the election were in, and such action on the part of these members has created a very bad impression amongst all Conservatives.

Mr. Bower was elected leader of his party by a convention of Conservatives, and he has been elected by a few of the Conservative members of the local Legislature, and until such time as Mr. Bower resigns or is deposed by another Conservative convention, then he is still leader of his party in the Province.

As however Mr. Bower was, unfortunately for the Province, and his party, not elected to the House, it would have been in order for those members to have all got together after the absentee vote was counted, and considered what steps should be taken to secure a new House leader, or else arrange to open up a seat for Mr. Bower.

The fact that the Conservatives in Vancouver were not elected was not due to Mr. Bower's leadership, but was due to the fact that men like Mr. Stevens were playing a double game, and it is hoped that the Conservatives of the Province will not soon forget the disgusting part played by the Federal member for Vancouver.

As an old resident of that city, I can assure you that those of us who knew Mr. Bower when he first counted Vancouver, and later during his term of office as Attorney-General and Premier, there is the same admiration for his splendid ability, and the sporting manner in which he has taken his defeat has increased our admiration and has earned for him the respect of those who but a short time ago were anxious to secure his defeat.

Your remarks in to-night's Times are very true. There is, as you state, a very strong movement amongst Conservatives and others to retain Mr. Bower as leader of his party, and whilst Dr. Toimie is a man of exceptional character and a wonderful organizer, it is generally believed that he will not accept the leadership, as he is doing such splendid work for his party throughout the Dominion. The large majority of the Conservatives are therefore still looking to Mr. Bower to lead the party in the House.

VIMY RIDGE

To the Editor—A request has come from our old and revered chief, General Sir Archibald Cameron Macdonell, for a subscription limited to 25c other ranks and $1.00 officers, to enable repairs to be made to the cross erected at Vimy Ridge, south of the Tholus Road, in 1917, in loving memory of our comrades of the First Division who fell in the capture of the Ridge.

The letter containing this request is too long to publish here, so it has been arranged to have copies at the headquarters of the Service clubs, together with a subscription list, which will close on July 20.

Only members of the First Division are invited to subscribe, and the amount is strictly limited as above. If any member of the Old Division does not belong to any Service club, I will be glad to receive and forward his subscription.

Late First Can. Div. C.E.F.

How to make better raspberry and cherry jam in a few minutes

Keeps perfectly—Make up a supply now to use during winter months.

By ANN PROCTOR

Everyone loves raspberry jam. For a spread on bread or hot biscuits, nothing seems to equal it. Its wonderful flavor makes children of us all. Until now, however, an expert was required to make it. Until now, also, it was expensive. Certo, a natural product of fruit, has solved the problem so that everyone can now make and eat this delicious conserve.

This Certo process banishes all the guesswork or worry as perfect results are certain. Unlike the old method of "pound for pound" mixtures which had to be boiled for thirty or more minutes, with consequent loss of fruit juice and flavor being boiled away, the economical Certo process requires only one minute's boiling and thereby saves all the fruit to produce 50 per cent. more jam.

Certo is an absolutely pure fruit product—contains no gelatine or preservative. Jams and jellies made the Certo way will keep perfectly. Certo will positively save you time and money, and eliminates all guesswork. You can use it on all kinds of fruits and you can even use canned fruit—something which you could never do before. It is highly endorsed by all domestic science experts. Every woman who has used it recommends it to her friends and says she will never be without it.

To make Raspberry Jam by the easy Certo process:

Crush well about 2 quarts ripe raspberries in separate portions, so that each berry is mashed. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil. Measure 4 level cups crushed berries into large kettle, add 7 level cups sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly from here and while boiling.

BOIL HARD FOR ONE MINUTE. Remove from fire and stir in 1/2 bottle (scant 1/2 cup) Certo. From time jam is taken off fire allow to stand not over 5 minutes, BY THE CLOCK, before pouring. In the meantime skim, and stir occasionally to cool slightly. Then pour quickly. This same recipe may be used for making strawberry, blackberry or loganberry jam.

To make Cherry Jam by the simple Certo process:

Pit and crush well about 2 1/2 lbs. cherries (four cherries give finest flavor.) Measure 4 level cups of the crushed pitted cherries into large kettle, add 1/2 cup water. Tie 3 table-spoons of pits in cloth and crush with hammer. Place with cherries to increase flavor. Stir until boiling, cover kettle, simmer 10 minutes, then remove pits. Add 7 1/2 level cups sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. BOIL HARD FOR ONE MINUTE. Remove from fire and stir in 1/2 bottle Certo. Allow to stand with occasional stirring 5 minutes only, by the clock. Skim and pour into glasses.

Write today to the Douglas Packing Co., Limited, Cobourg, for a copy of the Certo recipe booklet of 73 recipes. If your grocer does not have Certo send 40c in stamps to this Company and they will forward you a bottle.

Be sure to start now—the new, sure, quick, economical way of making jams and jellies. You will never return to the old "hit or miss" method.

NEW MISSION BOAT WILL BE DEDICATED TO-MORROW NIGHT

Motor Cruiser Broadcaster
Will Leave on Maiden Trip to Banfield To-morrow

The Broadcaster is the name of the new motor cruiser that has been built for Charles E. Motte, West Coast missionary of the Presbyterian Church, who has been carrying on his work in his widely spread parish under difficult and sometimes dangerous circumstances. The cruiser is now in the Inner Harbor and is open for inspection before the dedication service which will be held to-morrow.

For many years the Presbyterian Church has been carrying on missionary work among the scattered settlers, fishermen, loggers and cannery workers on Alberni Canal and Barkley Sound. The nationalities and creeds represented in that sparse population are very numerous. To all alike the missionary has gone with his message of goodwill and his practical service, and for the most part his ministry has been welcomed by the people.

At times the waters along the west coast of Vancouver Island are both stormy and treacherous and demand a staunch boat and skillful seaman-ship from all who venture upon them. The missionary in charge, Mr. Motte, through his experience in Christian service under the Scottish Coast service to fishermen, and later in the North Sea mine-sweeping service during the Great War, has achieved a fitting degree of skill in seamanship; but the boat in which he has been compelled to work has not made his trips around his scattered parish has been inadequate to the point of danger. More than once in critical situations the launch has failed the intrepid commander.

It was to remove as far as possible the danger, and to provide such equipment as would enable Mr. Motte to undertake his work with a measure of comfort that the church has had built at the Vancouver shipyards this new motor cruiser. The craft was built to plans and specifications drawn by Mr. Halliday, the well known naval architect of Vancouver, who designed Commodore Barnes' new auxiliary yawl.

The motor cruiser is thirty-three and a half feet in length with a beam of eight and a half feet and three foot draft. She is fitted with a Kelvin gasoline engine capable of developing nine knots an hour.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Victoria has materially assisted in the building and equipping of the boat and to them was accorded the honor of suggesting the name. Many of the fittings and furnishings have been supplied by the Sabbath schools and young people of the city churches.

The dedication service will be held in front of the Empress Hotel to-morrow evening at 5 o'clock. Immediately after the vessel will proceed to Banfield, the first point of call on her wide field of service in the charge of Mr. Motte and Geoffrey Jodson.

JEFFERSON REDUCES OWN SAILING TIME

Made Trip From Yokohama in
9 Days, 14 Hours and 20
Minutes

In docking from the Orient at 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Admiral Oriental liner President Jefferson, Captain F. R. Nichols, reduced her former fastest time between Yokohama and Victoria. On this trip she averaged 15.25 knots an hour, taking nine days, fourteen hours and twenty minutes from Yokohama breakwater to William Head. The ship's fastest average previously was 15.1 knots.

A list of 600 passengers was brought in by the liner this trip. Of this number 137 were first class. Sixteen first class and fifty steerage departed here.

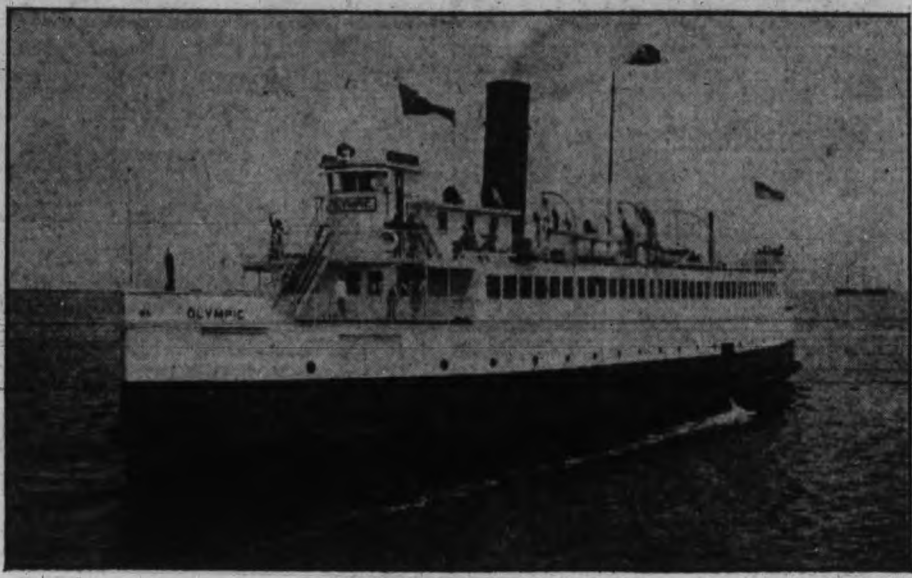

A heavy cargo was also brought from the Far East. There were 2,500 tons on board for Seattle, including a heavy shipment of silk amounting to 4,700 bales. Another feature of the cargo was the large shipment of tea loaded at Shimidzu. There were 500 tons on board altogether. The vessel was to have taken on 800 tons but owing to the regulating of the tea export trade by the Japanese Government, only 500 tons were shipped this trip. One hundred and seventy tons of cargo were discharged at Victoria.

Among the prominent passengers on board were: Dr. V. G. Heiser, of the Rockefeller Foundation, returning from a five weeks' visit to Japan; K. E. Graham, of the Standard Oil Company, of Shanghai, accompanied by his family; J. P. Bourne, superintendent of Hongkong Hotels Limited; Lieut.-Commander F. L. Reikohl, of the United States navy, en route to Bremerton; Rev. Robert G. Hoville, missionary; Miguel Romales, son of the Mayor of Manila; Henry W. Ray, managing director of Hongkong Amusements Limited, en route to Europe; K. C. and C. L. Wong, of the Sun Company, large Oriental department store; Franklin S. Pease, manager of the Shanghai-Canton Silk Corporation, accompanied by his family; and Joseph W. Ruble, vice-president of the Ferguson Construction Company, of Cleveland, accompanied by his wife.

MACHINE GUNS AND RIFLES USED IN BIG SEA LION SLAUGHTER

Twenty-five hundred sea lions were killed in two weeks by the Dominion Government patrol boat Givenchy in two weeks of war on the lions off the coast of Vancouver Island. Sea lions abound in large numbers off the west coast and prey upon salmon and other edible fish. They destroy such large numbers of them that they are a serious menace to the fishing industry. The Givenchy worked along the productive salmon areas with great success. Machine guns and rifles were placed in the hands of expert marksmen for the slaughter which is in accordance with the Dominion Government's policy to lessen the numbers of this prey animal. The sea lions are cordially hated by all fishermen. They do not hesitate to break into the nets and fishermen at times have difficulty in beating them back.

Will Inaugurate Mid-week Excursion to Port Angeles To-morrow

S.S. OLYMPIC

The new mid-week excursions will be inaugurated by the ferry Olympic on the Port Angeles-Victoria run to-morrow. Every Thursday throughout the summer special round-trip rates will be in effect for that day to encourage passenger travel between the two cities. This will be of great advantage to Victoria as the United States Pacific Coast fleet is stationed at Port Angeles. The Olympic is enjoying a busy season.

ATLANTIC CITY DUE TO-MORROW

Will Load 200,000 Ties For Port Sudan, and 4,000,000
Feet of Lumber

To load approximately 200,000 ties here for Port Sudan and 4,000,000 feet of lumber at other B.C. ports, the freighter Atlantic City is reported due here to-morrow or Friday. King Brothers, who will handle the vessel, were advised this morning. The Atlantic City is on her way up from San Francisco, where she discharged cargo from the Orient.

The Atlantic City is a large freighter of 6,235 gross tons and was built in 1920 by the Roper Shipbuilding Company at Stockton. She is owned by the St. Just Steamship Company. In length the vessel is 410 feet with a beam of fifty-four feet and depth of 35.5 feet.

This is but part of large shipments of lumber that will leave port this month. Over 2,000,000 feet of lumber will be shipped out of Victoria this month by the local mills.

LONDON CHANGING, T. ED. CLARK FINDS

T. Edward Clark, financial adviser, who represented Victoria on the Vancouver Board of Trade tour of Britain last year, has returned to Victoria after spending several months in London conferring with financial men on British investments in British Columbia. He has several important deals on as a result of his work in London.

While there Mr. Clark, on the invitation of a prominent society hostess, gave a lecture on British Columbia to a group of members of the aristocratic British families who were gathered there. The newspapers gave him great praise for his work and he was commended by Obed Smith, head of the Canadian Immigration Department there.

Mr. Clark said that Britain has changed much in the last ten years, most noticeably in the great numbers of persons of foreign extraction that now seem to flood the parts of London that were formerly exclusively English. He said Britain has been on short rations, so to speak, financially, but there is money for investment if one knows where to tap it. Mr. Clark will make his headquarters in Victoria and Vancouver about the end of the year. London again about the end of the year. He is now taking a party of friends to Ganges for a rest after his tour.

Waterfreight Act May be Amended

Ottawa, July 8.—Following several hours debate the House of Commons yesterday afternoon gave its final reading to a bill amending the inland Waterfreight Act of last session, which led to difficulties with American vessel owners on the Great Lakes.

Under the legislation of last year vessel owners were required to file their rates for grain with the board of grain commissioners. American vessel owners refused to file their rates, however, and for some time declined to send their boats to Port William and Port Arthur for grain cargoes. Under the present legislation the vessel owner will not be compelled to file his rates, but the shipper will be required to file a copy of his contract or charter for the carriage of grain from the head of the lakes to any port in Canada or the United States.

Hon. J. A. Robb, who in the absence of the Minister of Trade and Commerce, piloted the bill, explained that the object was to enable the board of grain commissioners to secure such information as would enable them, if necessary, to recommend suspension of the coasting laws. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, described the legislation both of this year and last as an "utter monstrosity." He did not think the present bill would even serve the purpose of getting information. The bill now goes to the senate.

WHICH — next winter?

NEXT WINTER can either bring you the prized human adventure... or, the ordinary human humdrum.

Which—will largely be decided by this summer. For now is the time to plan your cruise to the Gateway Ports of the World.

What an experience these cruises contain! Your great private yacht follows springtime 'round the world. It slips into Gateway Port after Gateway Port. You explore the lands of romance—Spain, Egypt, Holy Land, India, Java, China, Japan,—and many more. You meet their peoples, shop their bazaars, live their histories. Of such is life at its biggest.

On sea, you enjoy the luxury of a Canadian Pacific Empress; on shore, the best hotels, motorcars and trains. All arrangements are Canadian Pacific, that is, of highest standard. Canadian Pacific spans the world...

Cost? No more than comparable luxury at home. Time? Hardly more than an ordinary vacation.

ROUND THE WORLD CRUISE. Sailing from New York, January 14th. Returning via Hawaii, Vancouver, San Francisco, Panama Canal, to New York, 130 days; visits twenty-two countries, option of returning via rail from Vancouver or San Francisco. Steamship—EMPEROR OF FRANCE. Chosen twice for voyages by Lord Renfrew (Prince of Wales).

MEDITERRANEAN CRUISE. Sailing from New York, February 2nd, 63 days. Steamship—EMPEROR OF SCOTLAND. Her fourth cruise in these waters.

More Storms

"Buster," shaggy French poodle belonging to a family living in the devastated area of tornado-swept Lorain, Ohio, was marooned on top of a garage when the photographer happened by. The terrific wind had blown him up there from the ground. He probably had been there a couple of hours. But that was much too long for "Buster." He told the cameraman so. He consented, though, to stand still until the photographer could get his picture. Then the cameraman helped him down.

The same storm that brought such death and desolation to Lorain, Sandusky and other northern Ohio cities also hit Peoria, Illinois. Three were reported killed there. Here is what it did to St. Boniface's Catholic Church.

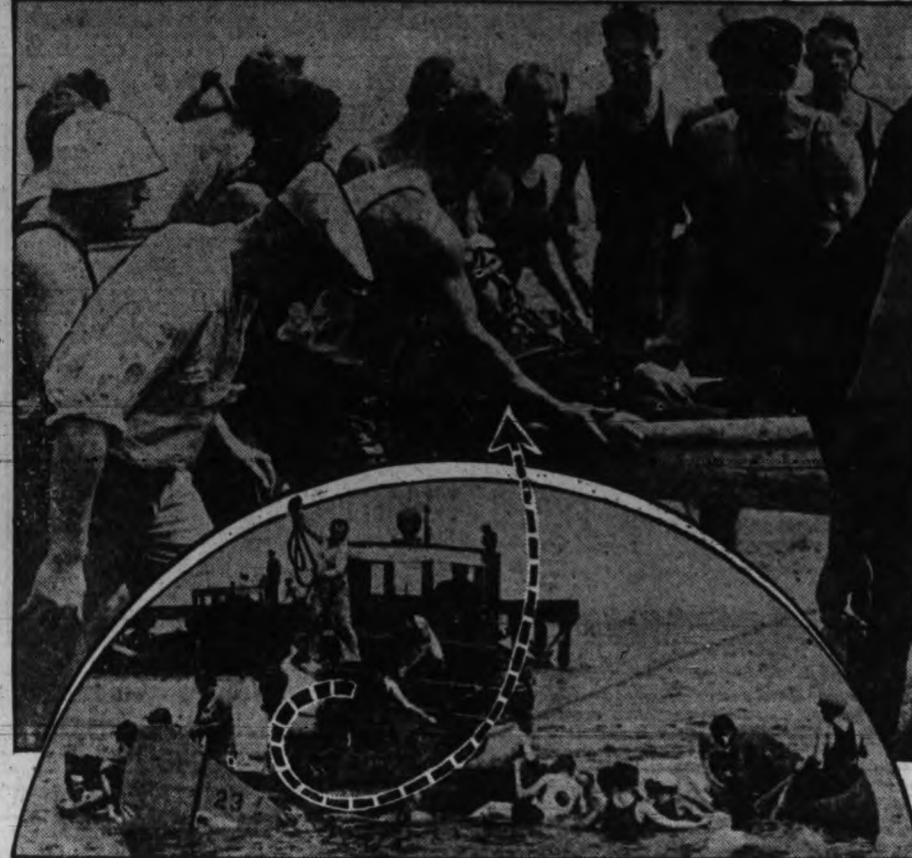

While the tornado was sweeping across from Illinois to Pennsylvania, a cloudburst and a flood were inundating the streets of Galesburg, Ill. It was the second time within a few weeks that Galesburg had seen Mother Nature angry. The first time, a terrific hailstorm swept the city. Here can be seen the swollen waters of Cedar Fork, a small creek running through the heart of the city, racing toward the residential district. Tracks of the Santa Fe Railroad were submerged under several feet of water. The creek, usually only a few feet across and a few inches deep, suddenly had become more than a block wide.

CANCER "CURES" AGAIN.—Once more Dr. T. J. Glover of Toronto, has come into prominence in connection with his serum for the cure of cancer, which was formally rejected by Canadian medical officials two years ago, but is now being followed with interest in the United States. Nobody not in the secret would ever suspect that Dr. Glover's laboratory was located in the top floor of this building not far from the crush of traffic on Broadway. Behind the two curtained upper windows on the left is the main product laboratory, where many of the doctor's experiments take place.

GOOD GOLFER.—C. C. "Happy" Fraser of Kanawaki, Montreal, Canadian amateur golf champion in 1922, who defeated W. M. Hodgson of Royal Montreal 7 and 5, in the second round of the Canadian amateur championship, now being played in Toronto.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM DEATH.—Romarkable picture showing scenes after C. E. Johnson, air mail pilot, dropped into the bay off Miller Field, Staten Island, N.Y., when his engine went dead as he was executing a loop-the-loop during a bit of stunt flying. He nose-dived into the bay and escaped with but slight injuries. Above are shown bathers carrying the pilot ashore while below is the plane in the water with a tug seeking to pull it out.

DEMANDED RANSOM FROM FRANKS.—Ransom again has been demanded of Jacob Franks, father of Robert Franks, murdered Chicago schoolboy. This time the life of Josephine Franks, Robert's seventeen-year-old sister, was threatened. A letter, a crude imitation of one sent Franks by Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, the boy's confessed slayers, asked $5,000. It said Josephine would be "killed in a manner worse than Robert" if the father refused to comply with the request. Detectives, at the appointed hour, took a decoy package to the place the money was supposed to be deposited. These three youths were arrested and later admitted, police say, they wrote the note. From left to right they are, Walter Dorus, Ignatius Clombar and Walter Boryca.

NOT KEEN FOR WRANGLER.—John W. Gowans of Toronto one of the very few Canadians who have visited Wrangel Island. He landed there during whaling trips in 1895 and 1897. Mr. Gowans says that in his opinion Wrangel would never be of any great value as an aeroplane base, and that he could not understand why any nation should particularly desire to hold it unless for its possible mineral wealth.

SAND DIAL PHONE CHECKS TIME.—How many times, in the course of a time-limit pay phone call have you been interrupted by a sweet voice saying: "Time's up, another nickel, please!" By the time the nickel is produced the call frequently is "gone." The sand dial attachment, here shown, is expected to help out in this situation, for it takes just five minutes for the sand to run through and the phone user can watch his minutes slipping by.

CANADIAN BOY LEADS JACK JOHNSON'S JAZZ BAND.—Bert Rule, aged 5, a Toronto boy, is now playing the role of a prince in Gloria Swanson's latest picture, "A Woman of Fire," which is a Famous Players-Lasky production. Bert has taken the name of "Bert Wales," and is the only child in the cast. The picture shows him with Jack Johnson's Jazz Band, at Madison Square Garden, New York City.

Love Stakes

By MILDRED BARBOUR

What a contrast, he thought, the fresh young beauty beside him and the colorless, fragile little creature, who raised her great eyes innocently, appealingly, to her good-looking host and murmured plaintively the same troubles of her day. But there was something about Jeannette that got you, for all her nondescript exterior, he acknowledged grimly. He had felt it himself, before he found her out. And he had resented finding her out. Disillusioning him had been her unforgivable sin, in his eyes. For all his cynicism and world-weariness, he wanted still to believe in fairy tales.

He addressed Natalie, his tired eyes resting appreciatively on her lovely profile:

"So the honeymoon is over? You've put away Arcady and begun to think about the grocery bill and keeping up the furnace fires?"

"Figuratively," Natalie smiled up at him. She felt that she rather liked him. There was no evidence of age or physical degeneration about him, for all his grizzled hair. Rather, he gave the impression of power, held in leash, of surprising mental and physical vitality. If his eyes were cynical and weary, wide experience, keenly analyzed and expertly tabulated in a mind more than ordinarily broad and receptive, had made them so. They were the flying signals of a spirit which scorned subterfuge in itself and appreciated its absence in others. He was ruthless, but he could be fair. It seemed the final jest of a mocking god that this man had chosen Jeannette. Of all the women in the world, for his wife.

"You haven't much patience with romance," questioned Natalie.

"Have you?" he countered, watching her through narrowed lids. "You appear more than ordinarily honest, Mrs. Sheldon—come now, give us the truth; you haven't much time for mush, have you?"

She flushed under his scrutiny, but she answered laughingly:

"Perhaps our interpretations of romance differ. What you term 'mush' may be my idea of a great and dignified passion."

"Have you?" he countered, brows raised sceptical grizzled brows.

"No use reminding a bride that all passion is great and dignified, while it lasts, in the mind of the participant! Ah, but glamour disappears soon enough! No hardly know when it goes or how. Sometimes it's lack of faith that drives it out; sometimes—" he turned his eyes with their disconcerting keenness upon her.

"How great is your faith, Mrs. Sheldon?"

Natalie wondered what he was trying to do. Was this line of questioning accidental, or did he suspect something and wanted to write an admission from her?

She shrugged her white shoulders carelessly.

"I fear I'm hopelessly medieval. My faith in everyone, everything, in my people, life itself, is beyond measure. I am honest with myself. Why should I suspect others of less sincerity?"

"Youth is tragic in its brave clinging to illusions," he replied with a pitying smile. "Youth is prone to think the world was created just for its happiness. It's the first blow that tests the mettle of the individual. Do you know, Mrs. Sheldon, I believe you'd take that blow, even if it were stunning, pick yourself up again, and carry on with your ridiculous faith. And I rarely make mistakes in character."

"How did you pick yourself up—after the first blow?" she queried.

"I didn't get up at all," he answered grimly. "I've been lying in the dust, cursing, ever since."

His eyes went involuntarily to his wife at the farther end of the table. She had turned her shoulder deliberately upon her neighbor on her right and was giving her entire attention to him. The trailing scarf she had affected to hide her thin shoulders had slipped and she called his attention to it, and smiled in playful gratitude when he retrieved it for her.

Natalie, embarrassed by Amory's admission, turned the subject deftly.

"Are you fond of analyzing people?"

"It's my sole hobby. A harmless enough one for an old man."

"Who said that you were old?" she rallied him.

"My wife," he answered, with disconcerting promptness. "It suits her purposes."

"I didn't get up at all," he answered grimly at the silent rebuke.

"Look here," he said suddenly. "I like you and admire you. You're a thoroughbred. It's not likely we'll meet very often—I don't go about much—But, if ever that trusting, tempestuous youth of yours, there was a very human twinkle in the world-weary eyes, if ever it receives a knockout blow, come and tell me about it and I'll show you how pleasant and comfortable disillusionment can be made, how nicely it can be maintained with poise and dignity."

She rejected his offer laughingly.

"That day shall never come. I won't let it."

"Mistress of your destiny, eh?" His skeptical smile somehow chilled her. "You might be—if the world were entirely masculine sleep, and again his eyes travelled to the woman at the farther end of the table. Was he warning her against his own wife, Natalie wondered.

TORMENTING DOUBTS

When the guests were taking their departure, Barry came to Natalie and said, in a low tone:

"I'm driving the Amorys home. Their chauffeur has just reported their car is out of order, and I let Jarvis off for the evening, you remember?"

She nodded.

"I can't be long," he promised, and went away with Jeannette Amory clinging to his arm and her husband following with inscrutable face.

Natalie went up to her sitting room, and slipped into a loose robe. She was tired, but too mentally awake to contemplate sleep. Marie brought her hot chocolate and was told to leave it unserved on the electric plate until Mr. Sheldon returned.

To herself Natalie admitted that the chocolate was only a pretext for waiting up for Barry. She refused to let herself think that he wouldn't return immediately.

She heard the door-bell ring and steps on the stairs and after a minute, her mother-in-law pushed open the door to her sitting-room.

"May I come in at this late hour?" she inquired gayly. "I was coming home from an old-ladies party and I saw your lights and couldn't resist dropping in to learn how your dinner went off."

Natalie kissed her warmly and pressed her into a chair.

"How regal you're looking! I don't believe there were any 'old ladies' at your party!"

Mrs. Sheldon shrugged complacent.

"I've got that shining above her gray and silver brocade."

"Where's Barry?" she inquired.

"He had to drive the Amorys home," Natalie explained. "Their car broke down."

Mrs. Sheldon made a little grimace.

"Like everything else connected with that impossible young woman! Did you ever notice how frequently and inevitably she comes apart in public? I heard a hostess say the other day that after every party Mrs. Amory attended, the servants spent hours picking up the things she'd dropped."

"I rather like Mr. Amory," Natalie murmured. "To-night was the first time I've ever really talked to him. He doesn't seem as black as he's painted."

Mrs. Sheldon lifted perfectly arched brows.

"He's to be pitied, of course. But, Natalie child, I hope you won't let charity blind you to certain truths. The Amorys are not the best people to receive."

She rose and gathered her wrap about her, despite her daughter-in-law's protests.

"I must get my beauty sleep, even if you don't need any," she pinched Natalie's fresh cheek affectionately, "and my poor Danby, who has grown old like myself and my car, is slumbering reproachfully behind the wheel outside. Tell Barry his mother forgives his forgetfulness of her and thoroughly approves of his absorption in his bride."

When she had gone, Natalie composed herself again to await Barry's return. The little French clock whirled the hour remindingly. Barry was taking his time.

Natalie determined not to let her thoughts drift to the possibility of Barry's lingering at the Amorys. Of course, Amory might ask him for a cigar and a nightcap (Amory was reputed to have a pre-prohibition cellar). That would be natural.

A little insistent devil whispered that, though the invitation to enter might seem to come from Amory, the latter might somehow be sent off to bed by the clever strategy of a wife, and the cigar and the drink administered by frail, eager little hands.

Natalie sprang up and paced the floor, determined to quell once and for all this doubt, which was insulting to Barry, intolerable to herself.

She was frightened by the poignancy of her own relief when at last she heard his key in the lock. For a time, while her little French clock ticked off the quarter-hours relentlessly, she had been very close to tears.

"Still up," Barry paused in surprise at her door.

She lowered the book in which she was pretending to be absorbed, and smiled at him from her nest of frivolous pillows.

"There is hot chocolate ready. I thought I would wait and share it with you."

He came in and dropped into a chair with a sigh that was a blend of weariness and content. She busied herself with the chocolate.

"Sorry I was late. As I passed the club, I saw Hugh just going in and I stopped to talk to him about something. He let out that Harriet was alone, so I took him back home."

Natalie murmured, "Poor Harriet!" mechanically.

But the ugly little doubt persisted. Was he trying to establish an alibi?

The first winter of Natalie's marriage went swiftly. Her numerous activities, social, philanthropic, some purely athletic, claimed her days and nights.

Barry was busy too. Hugh's irresponsible threw more and more financial cares upon the younger brother. He had, too, the additional burden of keeping up a full knowledge of Hugh's waywardness from his mother and Harriet.

Natalie aided and abetted him in this, realizing how futile and cruel cognizance of the true state of affairs would be. No matter how busy her day, she never failed to drop in for a moment on Mrs. Sheldon and Harriet, and she had cleverly concocted alibis for Hugh, alibis which she and Barry had painstakingly prepared.

But even this mutually-shared burden did not draw them any closer together. They labored over their common problem like two friendly young men. To the eyes of their world, they were a pattern of devotion, an ideally mated young couple. The real state of affairs would have proved a thunderbolt to anyone of their wide acquaintance.

Neither had ever mentioned to the other knowledge of Hugh's growing intimacy with Jeannette Amory. Natalie believed that, perhaps, Barry was unaware of this. His concern seemed to be about Hugh's frequent departures from the path of sobriety, his heavy losses at cards, and his prolonged absences from the house where the patient invalid waited anxiously, unprotestingly.

But Natalie knew, if Barry didn't, Mrs. Amory and Hugh had the good taste not to flaunt their friendship, but Natalie had come across them several times, herself unobserved, in little-frequented places. Once at the art gallery in low-voiced colloquy in the dimness of the Egyptian room toward the close of day; once on a by-path in the Park when she had entered by on horseback; again, in an obscure tearoom.

Constance Deering had been with her on the last occasion, and she had made some excuse about the stuffy atmosphere of the place and not Constance out before her sharp eyes had picked out the engrossed couple at the farthest table.

Toward the close of the winter, Barry suggested a holiday in Florida and Natalie agreed eagerly. The Deerings were going down, too, and Mrs. Barry, as she prevailed upon to join the party.

Natalie went to say goodbye to Harriet, feeling more anxious than she showed at leaving her alone. But to remain for Harriet's sake would have caused the invalid, with that uncanny intuition that pierces family subterfuges, acute distress.

"I'm glad you're getting away at this season," Harriet told her. "The close of winter is always a misery in this climate. It's good of you to take Mother Sheldon, too. She adores you both and I think she's never been so happy as she is since you and Barry married. Perhaps," she looked up from her inevitable needlework with a fleeting, wistful smile, "perhaps next year, I can go with you."

"You just bet you can," Natalie declared stoutly. "That new doctor you're doing wonders. I can just fairly see you improving, Harriet."

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs

STEADY TONE IN STOCKS

New York, July 9. (By R. P. Clark & Co., Ltd.)—The market was quiet strong in the early dealings to-day but as a general proposition became somewhat reactionary in the afternoon trading. Several specialties, however, were very prominent on the advancing side of prices. A little profit taking was observable in many directions to-day and it was apparent that many of the floor professionals were working on the selling side with the idea that a reaction is overdue in the general market. The oil stocks were again heavy. Selling in this group was inspired by reports of gasoline price reductions and principally by the Oil City Derrick figures which showed another substantial increase in production during the week. The Iron Age Review was not as optimistic in its tone as recent reports, reporting touching on doings in the steel trade suggests. However, there are rather distinct signs pointing to gradual improvement in the general run of trade in this industry. It is assumed largely that much of the buying power in the stock market is being stimulated in addition of course, the demand emanating from investment sources influenced by the early ruling of money and current rates for accommodation.

GRAINS RALLY IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Ill., July 9. (By R. P. Clark & Co., Ltd.)—Wheat, Evening report to the Government report was responsible for some of the strength shown in wheat to-day, but there was also a recognition in many quarters of the strong underlying features of the situation, which impelled many sold out longs to reinstate their lines. Winnipeg rallied sharply, and the strength in coarse grains, especially in corn, caused some buying. The Southwest is marketing wheat quite freely, but there is said to be a quiet disposition to hold wheat and mills are continuing to overbid the exporters for the wheat. This makes a further feature of strength. Canadian wheat has turned hot and dry again, and there has been buying on this account. With the Government report out of the way and the first run of winter wheat taken care of, we believe the upward march of cereal prices will be resumed, with irregular advances. It is significant that wheat is relatively strong, which shows present holders do not care to lose control of it.

Corn: July corn passed the dollar mark to-day, a new high on the crop while the cash corn advanced to high levels. No. 2 yellow selling at $1.05. Other deliveries advanced also. The weather conditions show no improvement, and the crop is so late in many sections that the farmers are unwilling to sell old corn. Cash buying continues, with sales of 245,000 bushels. The general expectation was for a bullish government report on corn, and there was buying, which absorbed heavy profit taking. Some recession might follow the government figures, whether bullish as expected or not, but no permanent price setback is expected. Oats advanced sharply under leadership of corn, although the government report is expected to be more bearish than anticipated. Cash sales were 155,000 bushels. The movement now is light; primary receipts being 223,000 bushels. At this price level setback to corn market should be entitled to a further advance.

Rye made a big stride towards recovering its recent decline. Stronger in wheat was a factor. On the dips, would buy rye. WINNIPEG GRAIN

Winnipeg, July 9.—The wheat market here to-day showed surprising strength following the recent decline, and aided by a local clearing of wheat interest rapidly after the opening, which was unchanged in price with lower Liverpool cable. At the close July was 2 1/2, October 2 1/4 and December 2 cents higher than July.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Holiday

Copyright, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
By Howard M. Garis
Neddie Stubtail, the jolly, fat little boy bear, shuffled in his funny way up to where Uncle Wiggily sat on the porch of his hollow stump bungalow.
"I'm glad to-morrow is the Fourth of July," said Neddie, and he turned a somersault head over his funny, little, stubby tail, he was so happy.
"Oh, so to-morrow is a holiday, is it?" asked Uncle Wiggily.
"It is the Fourth of July," answered Neddie, sitting up on his hind legs. "The flags will flutter in the get ready for a holiday to-morrow.

"Come along, Nurse Jane!" called Uncle Wiggily next day to his muskrat lady housekeeper. "We shall go on a holiday picnic. We'll take our lunch and eat it in the woods."
"Oh, may we come?" called Sammie and Susie Littlefellow, the rabbits.
"Take us!" begged Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the two squirrel brothers. "And we'd like to go on a picnic!" barked Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow. So Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane wind and I'm going to shoot a bang-bang gun!"

"Oh, Neddie! You wouldn't shoot a gun, would you?" exclaimed the bunny rabbit. "If you shoot a gun with gunpowder in, you may get hurt or you may hurt someone. I know it's lots of fun to make loud noises on the Fourth of July holiday, but shooting a gun—dear me—I wish you hadn't told me that!"
"Oh, it's only a gun made by blowing a paper bag full of air and then popping it—bang!" said Neddie.
"Oh, if it's only a paper bag gun—that's all right," said Mr. Longears. "And since to-morrow is a holiday, as you say, I must do something to make Nurse Jane happy. I'm glad you spoke of it, Neddie. I'll skip along and tell Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy to took with them to the woods on the Fourth of July holiday picnic many of the animal boys and girls. The children stopped burning the paper bags full of air, which they had been making believe were guns, torpedo, fire crackers and the like of that.

In the woods Nurse Jane found a large, flat stump which, she said, would do nicely for a table. On this stump table was set out the good things to eat from the picnic lunch basket.
"What a lovely Fourth of July," spoke Baby Buntie, as she reached for a chocolate cream sandwich. And just then a harsh voice growled:
"What lovely ears Uncle Wiggily has! I must nibble them!" and out of the bushes came a big black bear. At first the jolly picnic party thought it was Mr. Stubtail, the father of Neddie and Beekie Stubtail, the good bear children. But a second look showed that it was the bad black bear, always hungry for ears.
"I'm going to take you off to my den," growled the Bear to the rabbit gentleman.
The animal children were beginning to get frightened, but Nurse Jane acted very bravely. Standing up straight, she cried:
"Here, Uncle Wiggily, take this powder and blow that bear away up to the sky so he can't come back until next Fourth of July. Take this powder and blow him up!" she handed Uncle Wiggily some talcum powder which she kept to powder her shiny nose, but the Bear didn't know that. He thought Nurse Jane was giving him powder. "Blow him up!" cried the muskrat lady. "Blow the Bear sky high!"
The rabbit gentleman blew some of the talcum powder toward the Bear. At the same time Jackie Bow Wow took a long breath and blew a paper (I mean he blew the bag full of air). Then he burst it between his paws. "Bang! Bang! Bang!" burst the bag.
"Oh, I'm shot! I'm shot! I'm blown up with the powder!" howled the bad Bear, and away he ran as fast as he could go, taking his funny little tail with him.
"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily when the Bear was far away. "He was frightened of talcum powder and a paper bag!"
Then the picnic party had a jolly Fourth of July in the woods, and if the little worm doesn't stick his tail up out of the ground and tickle the birds under the chin, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Buntie's burns.

CHARGES AGAINST HANDLING OF SHIPS

Senator W. H. Bennett Also Said Enormous Salaries Paid C.N.R. Officials
Senator Pardee States Thornton Making Railways First-Class System
Ottawa, July 9.—Senator W. H. Bennett, Conservative, Ontario, charged in the Senate yesterday that when in 1923 there was a shipping combine on the Great Lakes to hold up the public for insurance and space rates, two of the largest vessels of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine were handed over to the combine at a ridiculous rate. At this time, Senator Bennett added, the Government Merchant Marine had twelve vessels on the Great Lakes, and it had been expected that this fleet would be sent to the head of the lakes to bring down grain.
COAL SHIPMENT
Senator Bennett claimed there was an even more scandalous condition in handling the coal for the railways on the Great Lakes. The Canadian National Railways required 1,500,000 tons of coal on the upper lakes. They had twelve ships of their own, but the contract for handling the coal was given to the combine on the Great Lakes. He said the Government wanted to know if higher-up officials in the Canadian National Railways knew the profit made by the public company out of these coal contracts while the railway steamships were idle.
Nearly all these vessels had been sold, and he wished the proposed committee of inquiry to find out on whose suggestion they had been sold. He wanted to know if higher-up officials in the Canadian National Railways had ceased to have any connection with the Canada Steamships Company and also when Grand Trunk officials had ceased to hold stock in shipping companies in their clerks' names.
USED BY COMPANIES
Some of the vessels sold were declared to be not adapted for the lake service, he said, but as they were sold to private companies they were put into commission. He said the Canadian National Railways officials had wanted to depreciate the value of these vessels in the public eye and have them placed on the bargain counter for party friends. He took object to the position taken that there should be no criticism of the Canadian National Railways management, and declared he would not be bullied or coaxed into silence on this subject.
SALARIES OF OFFICIALS
Senator Bennett then referred to the "enormous salaries" paid on the National Railways, and particularly to one man, who received over $20,000 a year, and probably $30,000 per annum, and was provided with a palatial car in which to "joyride." He also referred to another "importation from the Long Island Railway at an enormous salary." He declared it was time for a showdown, as the people were tired of this "mismanagement, waste and extravagance."
OFFICIALS' OFFER
Senator Gideon Robertson drew attention to the statement that officials and employees of the National Railways had voluntarily offered to give up one day's pay a month. This, he said, had not been offered by the employees, as they had had their salaries cut in 1921 and 1922, while the salaries of the officials remained at war peak prices. He could not state that the officials had not voluntarily made this offer, but he could state that they had been served with a notice that their salaries would be reduced four per cent, and this was equivalent to the loss of one day's pay per month.
MONEY SPENT WISELY
Senator Pardee, Liberal, Ontario, argued that Canada had been forced into Government ownership of railways, and no man had undertaken a bigger task than Sir Henry Thornton. He had brought a number of disjointed railroads into a splendid system which was giving a better service than the people had ever had. He had never seen any extravagance, but it must always be remembered that money must be spent to obtain

CLAN DENOUNCED BY U.S. SOCIALISTS
Resolutions Passed at National Convention Held in City of Cleveland
Cleveland, Ohio, July 9.—The Socialist Party of the United States late yesterday officially condemned the Ku Klux Klan by name after a sharp debate, at the National convention.
The resolution says:
"We emphatically condemn the Ku Klux Klan and every other effort to divide the workers on racial and religious lines and to effect political changes by secret or terrorist methods."
"Mr. H. Henry, Indiana, said his state was so permeated with the Klan that condemnation of it by the party would require a lot of explaining by Socialist organizers.
"The mining towns are crowded with union men marching in Klan regalia," he said.
"Then," said Walter Thomas Mills, of California, "you must explain why workers are at each other's throats. You must either tear down the flaming cross or crucify the labor movement upon it."
The convention also passed a resolution denouncing the Fascist movement in Italy and the assassination there of the Socialist Deputy Matteotti.
A dozen other declarations were passed, the avalanche of resolutions in place of the formal platform, which the party passed over on Monday when it endorsed La Follette as a candidate for the presidency of the United States and his platform.
Among these declarations were resolutions pledging active support to the child labor movement, favoring the United States and his platform, and endorsing the bill for a circulating $1,000,000,000 with which to restore the economic balance between the United States and Central Europe, and condemning the thumb print system of identifying immigrants.

EDUCATION METHODS
The convention supplemented the Klan declaration with a resolution denouncing the exploitation of negro workers and urging their education in the doctrines of Socialism. In fact, much of the closing day of the convention was taken up with discussion of educational methods, special attention being paid to work within the labor unions. One of the resolutions provided for research committees to study methods of reaching the young, and another for advertising and publicity experts to aid the campaign work.
A lengthy resolution offered by Mills calling for farm loans on public credit, public ownership of transportation and marketing facilities, governmental stabilization of prices and co-operative purchasing of supplies and of farms on lengthy credit to individuals by the Government.
The convention selected a new national executive committee of seven and created the office of national chairman, naming Eugene V. Debs for the honor.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Special to The Times
Sidney, July 8.—The usual monthly meeting of the North Saanich Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon in Westley Hall. The president, Mrs. Deacon was in the chair. There was a very small attendance. The secretary, Mrs. Jeffries, read the minutes which were passed. The treasurer, Mrs. Shade read the financial report which was adopted showing the receipts for children's day, $747.59 being taken; expenses, $15.45, leaving a balance of $452.43 for the Children's Trust Fund. The resignations of Mrs. Shade and Mrs. Matthews were received with regret. Mrs. Clark was elected as treasurer in Mrs. Shade's place. Owing to the smallness of the meeting it was impossible to do all the business. A flower show is to be held in Experimental Farm Park on August 13. The meeting then adjourned.

FOREST FIRES IN CHECK

Special to The Times
Duncan, July 9.—The forest fire menace has been held in check, and although serious, it is not expected that any very great destruction of property and timber will now take place. Both the Hillcrest Lumber Co. and the Mayo Lumber Co. are doing considerable back-firing to meet the emergency should it arise. What might have been a very serious motor accident took place near the Victoria Lumber Co.'s premises on the Island Highway, Henry W. Fox of Duncan driving a Ford car coming round by a high board fence suddenly met Mr. Marshall in a packard car. Trying to avoid a collision Mr. Fox turned outward, the result being a rather severe bump, which caused a nasty cut on Mrs. Fox's face. The front axle was badly twisted of the Ford and the bumper and radiator bent in the Packard.
To-morrow (Wednesday) a team of tennis players from the Victoria Club play against the South Cowichan Club at Cowichan Falls.

REVIVAL IN LUMBER ORDERS FROM JAPAN

Orders Also From Port Sudan And China; Developments at Prince Rupert

Lumber orders from Japan are reviving, according to information received by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce. Orders for ties for Port Sudan delivery and new orders from China will also stimulate business, it is anticipated. Within one week it is estimated that 10,000,000 feet of lumber was ordered from British Columbia mills. During the month of June 120 timber contracts, covering 19,000 acres of timber lands, were entered into, according to word received from the district forester at Prince Rupert. The land is estimated to produce 167,000 ties, 840,000 lineal feet of poles and 32,000,000 feet of sawlogs. All have to be re-cut in three years. Thousands of big poles have left Siskiyous during the past few months for the middle western states where there is a brisk demand for telegraph and telephone poles.

FOOD INQUIRY

Ottawa, July 9.—The Government of Canada has intimated its willingness to appoint two representatives on the committee which will investigate the problem of distributing food throughout the British Empire. Premier King told the House yesterday. The committee, proposed by the British Government, is to represent the United Kingdom and the Dominions.

LEPROSY CURE IS PERMANENT, SAYS EMINENT DOCTOR

Twenty-Five Per Cent of Hawaiian and Philippine Cases Have Recovered

Dr. V. G. Heiser, of Rockefeller Foundation, Describes Cure

"There was one thing I was particularly impressed with during my visit to Japan and that was the manner in which they are handling leprosy," stated Dr. Victor G. Heiser, of the Rockefeller Foundation, on his return from Japan aboard the liner President Jefferson yesterday afternoon en route to New York. Dr. V. G. Heiser, together with Dr. F. F. Russell and Dr. J. Graham, have been studying diseases of Japan for the past five weeks at the invitation of the Japanese Government. Dr. Russell and Graham are still in Japan.

"They have all the worse cases isolated, while there is a police record of all other cases of leprosy," he said. "Of course it would be impossible to isolate them all, but those who have leprosy in the first stages are confined to one room and house until cured. Although I have not been actively engaged during the past few years in the cure of leprosy, I have always taken a keen interest in it," stated the doctor, who went on to say that the cure, which he had discovered, had reached that stage where if used before the disease had gone too far was permanent.

Dr. Heiser explained that a cure had been known, but could not be used as it made the patient ill to take it. It was Dr. Heiser who learned of this "new" method of treatment, the method of taking it without the resulting sickness. This has been improved upon until now almost any case can be cured. The cure for leprosy is what was first known as chaulmoogra oil. Dr. Heiser discovered the preparation to inject this into the body instead of having to drink it, which naturally resulted in sickness. Improvements were made on this preparation by an Hawaiian doctor, and it is now known in its more advanced stage as ethiotele chaulmoogra oil.

The discovery was made in 1911, and five years' observation has shown that in the Philippine and Hawaiian Islands alone at least twenty-five per cent of the lepers treated with this oil have recovered, and been permanently cured. Three hundred have been cured of this disease. In the Philippine Islands alone during the past five or six years, the doctor stated.

Dr. Heiser went on to outline the work that the Foundation is conducting now. He pointed out at the same time that the aim of the Foundation was to prevent, not cure. The cure was left to the Rockefeller Institute. The Foundation is an entirely different organization, the doctor explained, with a backing of $150,000,000.

YELLOW FEVER

"We are concentrating our efforts on the stamping out of yellow fever throughout the world," he stated. "It is only a question of ridding the cause of the fever in the tropical countries. The more northern and far southern countries are not affected, except by contagion. The west coast of South America, Mexico and Central America are practically cured of this disease. We fought the cause with a certain fish that we discovered which when placed in the water barrel or well exterminated the mosquito in the water by eating them. It is the mosquito that causes the disease, and it is only by exterminating them from the water which people drink that the disease can be stamped out."

Another effort of the Foundation is to decrease the death rate of the United States and Canada. "The Rockefeller Foundation believes that it is much better to spend these large amounts in trying to prevent rather than in curing the disease. The Foundation is not looking for new knowledge, but what the Foundation does seek to do is to put this large volume of knowledge into practical operation, so that it may be employed in work of prevention rather than in work of a curative character," stated Dr. Heiser.

HOW EXCLUSION AGITATION ACTS

Native Christians in Japan to Feel Effect of Anti-American Sentiment

Japan Cannot Afford to Lose Silk Market in United States

That the situation for the native Christians, as well as the Americans resident in Japan has been intensifying since the exclusion agitation was the statement made on board the steamer President Jefferson yesterday afternoon by Rev. Dr. A. K. Reischauer of the Northern Presbyterian Church, who is associated with the Women's Christian College, Tokyo, as executive secretary.

BOYCOTT OF CHURCHES

The visitor stated that the Japanese had made a nasty habit of going round to the churches managed or financed from the United States, and after the Japanese foreign money was coming for missionary enterprise, had published the fact, with the view of keeping their countrymen away from the churches. An effective method of boycott without coming into police clutches. It had had a very serious effect on the native churches, which lost heavily during the earthquake, and were largely dependent on aid from abroad. "We as Americans have endeavored to explain to the Japanese that this exclusion policy is not based on the anti-Japanese sentiment of the United States, and that if it is to be described as an anti-movement at all, it should be termed an anti-Asiatic one. Their feelings are deeply hurt, nevertheless, because the Japanese, from being one of the five great Allied powers a few years ago, are now forbidden to enter the territory of the United States, the last of the great powers to enter the war."

EFFECT OF FEELING

"While we Americans in the Orient do not look for any actual outbreak, there are here and there signs that the prejudice against Americans in Japan is a real one. Signs have appeared in the stores and placarded telephone poles have urged a boycott, but while these have been removed by request of the authorities, the popular feeling has not been allayed. The Japanese Government knows perfectly well that it cannot face a boycott of American products, for not only must it have iron and cotton and similar articles, but it must have an export market for its silk and tea. Until one is familiar with the manner in which the export trade is bound up in silk, one does not appreciate how large is the threatened loss by a boycott, which would be ruinous to Japanese commerce."

"To those of us who are constantly moving in the channels of the commerce, the story about the breaking up of the foreign dance at the Imperial Hotel was exaggerated and did a good deal of harm, its alarmist features being emphasized in foreign cables."

Dr. Reischauer expressed his belief that the situation would be easier perhaps in the near future, after the violence of anger had subsided. He declared, however, the effect on Christian work in Japan would be permanently serious.

GARDENERS EXTEND DATE OF ENTRIES

Entries for the Summer Show on Friday and Saturday of the Victoria and District Gardeners' Association, to be held at the Arcade Building basement, were to have closed yesterday, but it has been decided to extend the date until noon to-morrow. Mayor Hayward will open the show at 3 o'clock, and representatives of the City Council, Chamber of Commerce and various public bodies and horticultural societies are invited. The Firemen's band will render selections. Information with regard to the entries can be obtained from the secretary, F. E. Houston, by telephone No. 9412. The entries are open to city, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich suburban residents. The show committee hopes that the general public will patronize the show well.

HI-JACKERS WERE ACTIVE WHEN BELSHAZZAR FEASTED IN BABYLONIAN PALACES

Unusual Story of Modern Crime Under Archaic Guise Told to Theological Conference From Tablets of Mesopotamia; Moses and Mount Sinai Inscription.

Some people think hi-jacking quite a modern crime. Not so says the Babylonian student. They had in those twilight days of civilization people who rob and steal from bootleggers, who themselves are violating the law, according to an example quoted this morning to the Pacific Coast Theological Conference, now in session here, by Rev. Arch. Tremayne of Seattle, who has made a special study of the archaeology of Western Asia.

Mr. Tremayne acquired his knowledge under the direction of Professor A. T. Clay, Laffan professor of Assyriology and Babylonian literature, Yale University, during a three-year period, at the Yale Museum of Archaeology which contains over 10,000 clay tablets dug from the ancient libraries and archives of Mesopotamia. Mr. Tremayne made a selection of over 200 of them for publication in the Yale Oriental series. The tablets are written in the Neo-Babylonian cuneiform script, and were dated towards the close of the Babylonian captivity.

HI-JACKING THEN

The speaker made a special study of the tablets describing the temple slaves, and their position and privileges. It was in allusion to one of these, sirqu, himself a fugitive from justice, who had captured a reeveat shepherd of the temple, and allowed his captive to escape for a gift of wine, and shekels of silver, that he made the comparison with the modern hi-jacker.

This hi-jacker, Innin-zer-ibni, who flourished about the time when the mysterious summons came to warn Belshazzar of the "feast of the golden table," was brought into court, and the witnesses described what he had done just as a liquor raid story might be told today. The tablet is silent as to what happened to Innin-zer-ibni, who perhaps appealed, although he was indicted on two counts, in each of which he got both cash and liquor. Mr. Tremayne examined the story of Moses and the wanderings in the wilderness, in the light of modern research. The archaeologists have done much to support the authenticity of the Pentateuch, and he related one feature of the story where the horizon of history takes shape and form in the exodus from Egypt across the barren waste which separates the ancient civilizations of Asia from those older records of the Valley of the Nile.

On this subject he referred to the discoveries affecting Mount Sinai, linking the Egyptian founding with the Hebrew Moses.

MT. SINAI STONE

An ancient stone tablet found on Mount Sinai has been deciphered by Professor Grimme of the University of Berlin, which throws valuable light on the Israelites in the wilderness. The inscription reads: "I am the son of the Pharaoh, chief of the mine workers of the temples of Ma'an and Yahu of Sinai. Thou Baalat of Hatshepsut, thou wast kind, hast drawn me out of the Nile, hast set me over the sanctuary of Ma'an which is on Sinai."

THE BIBLICAL STORY

"Now queen Hatshepsut was undoubtedly the Pharaoh's relative who drew Moses from among the bull-rushes in the Nile. She was a famous Egyptian queen, born about 1550 B.C., according to Egyptian inscriptions, which would make her about fifteen years of age when she visited in 1515 B.C. the district near the delta of the Nile where the Israelites were living. According to the records this was her only visit to that place and one can imagine how easy it would be for the sister of Moses to persuade a princess of that tender age to call a nurse from among the Hebrew women. This is also about the date when Moses was born, for we are told in the Second Book of the Kings, the sixth chapter and the first verse, it came to pass in the fourth year of Solomon's reign over Israel, that the Lord said to the house of the Lord." The building of the temple took place according to some about 960 B.C., to which if we add 400 years would bring us to 1460 B.C., placing the exodus from Egypt in that year. And if to this we add eighty years, which, according to Exodus 7-1, was the age of Moses when he began to "speak unto Pharaoh," it brings us to about 1520 B.C. as the date of Moses' birth.

"But more interesting still, is the announcement of the finding on Mount Sinai of a sandstone statue, which Professor Grimme identifies as a likeness of Moses. The inscription on the statuette reads: "For Baalat (The Mistress). For the increase of the herds. For the well-being of the herds. For the well-being of M-S-H (Moses, Moses) chief over the stone workers of Sinai." The letters of these words were written in very primitive characters of the Hebrew alphabet. NEW LIGHT THROWN

"These two discoveries put together throw a new light upon the presence of Moses in Mount Sinai. They indicate that Moses represented Queen Hatshepsut as an overseer of the mine workers and a 'chief over the stone workers of Sinai' as well as a 'chief of the Temples of Ma'an and Yahu of Sinai.' The temple in which the statuette was found was dedicated to Hathor and Saptu or Sopdu. Hathor is the Mistress of Turquoise (there have been rich mines of turquoise at Sinai) and Saptu is considered identical with Yahu or Yahwe, the Jehovah of Moses," said Mr. Tremayne.

These inscriptions if they refer to Moses (and that is very probable) show that Moses had been to Sinai before he led the children of Israel through the wilderness and the desert of Sin at which time he brought them down the Ten Commandments from Sinai. They show that Moses was familiar with the worship on Sinai, having at one time been in charge of both the temples of Ma'an and Yahu on the mountain.
